We thought it would be helpful to share what our Allied Members are offering as suggestions for current caretaking and nutrition strategies today. This one comes from Tom Reed at Harrell's:

My opinion of the crop and where it is being grown is that continuous nutrition throughout the year is beneficial. I believe especially in young plantings that could be looking at longer term CRF products to reduce labor commitment. One of our controlled release blends (18-6-12 analysis) that is being utilized at a citrus nursery for young bamboo plants with a rate of 0.5-1 lb / plant every 6 months has been successful.

Harrell's POLYON® blends are customized to provide nutrients at a predictable rate over time under specified conditions. To find the right POLYON® controlled-release fertilizer product for you, reach out to your Harrell's Rep.
